The importance of MRV

三可的重要性

- Improving availability of information about the range and impacts of actions that countries are taking to mitigate climate change
- Helping countries clearly delineate actions they can take to meet GHG mitigation and development objectives
- Increasing awareness among countries of options and best practices for effective mitigation
- Builds capacity for effective implementation of such actions at national and local levels, and the credibility of all countries' mitigation efforts
- Holds developed countries accountable for meeting their commitments to support developing country actions
- Above all, TRUST
